Word From the Pastor

Dignity in the Faith

For I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ, for it is the power of God to salvation for everyone who believes, for the Jew first and also for the Greek. (Romans 1:16)

The hammer kept hitting the nails, the saw kept sawing the wood, the work was hectic, not at all rewarding; to top it all, there were always people standing around and laughing, jeering, literally mocking everything that was done. But, the 'faithful' kept working and working and working and working. This was Noah's family's routine before the flood. Today, we read the Bible and know this as a historic event – very soon the 'Rapture' would also be a historic event. As we walk along into another month of 2021 and as we move to another theme called 'Dignity of the Bride', we should know that as much as we don't understand it all now, keep working, keep worshiping, keep winning (souls).

Apostle Paul said that he was not ashamed of the gospel because his very dignity was defined in what was considered the most undignified deed – the Cross. We live in a world that is exalting cardboard fame and extinguishing glory. But in the Cross of Christ, we find these three truths that radically redefine the value of a person – a disciple of Jesus Christ.

1. It is the gospel – the good news of Jesus Christ
2. It is the power of God
3. It requires faith – for all who believe

Enoch kept praying to an unseen God – he was taken into glory

Noah obeyed an unseen God – he was rescued from destruction

Abraham followed an unseen God – he became the father of many nations

David worshiped an unseen God – he was a man after God's own heart

Daniel feared an unseen God – he served God alone through five different kings

Paul believed an unseen God – he took the gospel to the heathen nations

John rejoiced in an unseen God – he was given revelation about the end of times

None of them thought it was a shameful thing to follow God, they were not ashamed to openly declare their faith in words and deeds.

What about you? Do you see your discipleship as a position of dignity or as a symbol of shame? One life – live for Jesus.

Have a blessed month.

In Grateful Appreciation...

The children, staff and committee members of the Riber Memorial Day Care Centre, wish to place on record our gratitude for the yeoman service rendered by Mrs. Prema Daniel to the Project. She passed away on the 19th of March, 2021, after a brief illness. A much sought after specialist in the field of Early Childhood Education, Mrs. Prema Daniel consistently and conscientiously steered the project in the right direction, as Chairperson and Committee member. We will miss her valuable advice and viable suggestions. Her generous giving of herself to the betterment of others will be remembered, cherished and emulated in the years to come.

'Lift Up A Standard'

We commonly speak of life as precious, be it a life in a humble abode or a stately palace. Moments of living once gone can neither be captured nor replaced. More valuable than earthly possessions is the life that God has ordained for us as our 'portion'.

God has given each one of us gifts and talents, be it two talents, five talents or even a single talent. Like a miser whose treasure is buried, we are so reluctant to share of ourselves, take ownership of situations, and embrace little acts of love, friendship, and compassion.

One is not decrying the benefit of making sufficient money and building security around us. The danger lies in making our earthly treasures our obsession. Our time is chalked out by calendars and life is squeezed up by time-managed schedules. Our God has made us for a much more sublime purpose. He has made us for Himself. There is a richer and deeper need planted in the depth of our hearts that can never be satiated by earthly goals.

Life is brief and eternity is long. Born on earth, we understand that the normal rhythm of life must continue – joy and sorrow, living and dying, good time and bad and so on. High levels of anxiety and stress are palpable in everything we see and experience around. This is today heightened by a global pandemic that has chosen to visit planet Earth and seems to be in no hurry to leave.

How often we are content to watch the game of life from the sidelines. To live life fully, it is felt, too risky and scary. It is said we are a nation of viewers and not doers. A Christian in any walk of life cannot live life by proxy.

Our Lord encouraged people to live life to its fullest and to pour our all to serve Him. Our Lord challenged the thronging crowd with His Sermon on the Mount. He encourages us to be as flavourful as salt, bold and bright as a city on a hill! He promised that such a life would not always be pleasant, but the ultimate prize would be richly rewarding.

We must value our God-gifted personalities. It is said of a slave in an old Southern plantation, who walked so straight and held his head regally high, that a visitor asked, "Who is that?". The owner of the plantation replied, "He is the son of an African King, and he never lets you forget it!".

We are all the sons and daughters of the King of Kings. "The Spirit Himself bears witness with our spirit that we are children of God," Romans 8:16. We are made to be somebody. We have the responsibility of being His "inner circle", as members of the heavenly family. Our duty is to be alive to His calling and through our life as His soldier, brother, slave and fellow worker, rescue some 'golden flecks from the ashes'. Let us boldly step into our calling and journey with Jesus in the power of the Holy Spirit.

*"Go through,
Go through the gates!
Prepare the way for the people;
Build up,
Build up the highway!
Take out the stones,
Lift up a banner for the peoples!"*
Isaiah 62:10

OBITUARY

Mrs Prema Daniel passed away on Friday, 19th March 2021 aged 75 years. The funeral was held at the Kirk on 20th March, followed by burial in Kasimedu cemetery. We convey our heartfelt condolences to the bereaved family.

Greetings from Edinburgh to The Kirk in Egmore

It is many years since I was Presbyter at The Kirk but I remember with gratitude and affection my years of ministry in Egmore with my late wife Dorothy and my children, Eldon, Timothy and Sulekha.

Much has changed in our world since I first came to St Andrew's in 1978, not least in India itself. Some of these changes have brought fresh hope to our connected human family, others have led us all into difficult places. Although we share a common heart-beat, the nations are divided. Our advanced technologies wonderfully connect us, but still today millions of our sisters and brothers live in abject poverty, while violent wars are a marker of our times.

At its best, the Christian church stands for reaching out in love, breaking down barriers and offering real hope and healing to the world. At this time of remembering its history, our prayer would be that The Kirk continues to be a place of Christ's light and transformation in the heart of Chennai. No congregation in the world exists only to sustain itself. In my understanding the most meaningful way of celebrating any church anniversary is for the congregation to rededicate itself, heart and mind, to that great task to which Jesus invites every day of our lives. So I pray that with God's grace, The Kirk will continue to be a place of Light and of Love and of Hope. That it will be able to share the Gospel in humility as it listens to others:

to be guided by the Spirit through the life of prayer:
to believe that every life is precious to God:
to walk alongside the oppressed in the struggles for justice:
to heal those broken in body and mind:
to live from its God-given spiritual depths:
to be grateful for each new day,
and to often experience the risks, surprises and laughter of the Holy Spirit.

With blessings and love to you all,

Revd Dr Peter Millar (ionacottage@hotmail.com)

AWESOME!
Reflections at Easter
Read Ps 8: 3-9

When I with wonder gaze upon
The oceans deep and wide,
The dancing waves with froth and foam,
The low and rising tide:

The sky that stretches endlessly,
The sun that shines by day,
The moon with twinkling stars at night,
The clouds that float their way:

All creeping things and animals,
The myriad birds in flight,
The fish that swim, the plants and flowers,
Ripe fruit, my tongue's delight:

Your marvellous creations, Lord,
The wonders You have done,
The beauty and intricacies,
Of all Your works, each one:

With awe I ponder, what is man
That You should look on me,
And send Your Son to die upon
A cross at Calvary,

To save my soul and take me to
A mansion built for me?
I can't but bow with gratitude,
Repent and follow Thee.

MENTAL AND EMOTIONAL HEALTH ADDICTION — III

Smoking is the leading cause of preventable illness. Quitting smoking is the single best thing smokers can do for their health. The long — term health benefits one gains by quitting are innumerable. Most smokers know that tobacco is bad for their health and they want to quit.

More than three-fourths of the current smokers have tried to quit at least once. Quitting smoking is tough. It takes time, planning, patience, effort and energy and a strong motivation. To start with, life may feel a bit empty, without the comforts and rituals of smoking.

There are very many ways and options to quit — counseling, smoking cessation programmes, nicotine replacement therapy and prescription medications. If one has a markedly strong will, quitting cold turkey without the help of other modes is possible. A well planned, ideal and customized combination of options greatly reduces the pain and discomfort of quitting that may prove intense during the initial few days or weeks.

The following guidelines are born out of deep concern, extended to unknown and unseen 'smoking' friends. For a smoke-free life, you have to face a tough foe, the craving for nicotine. If you falter and slip in your great effort, do not give up. Get right back on track and fight, to ultimately become a successful quitter. Do not let nicotine seduce you again.

Avoid smoking in your home. Declare your home a smoke-free zone. Throw away your ash trays. Save yourself and your family from the toxic effects of second-hand smoke. Your family and friends can play a valuable role in your new life as a non-smoker. Encouragement from loved ones is extremely helpful. They form your biggest cheerleaders. You are taking a momentous step towards good health. Anytime is perfect to snuff out your habit. Be serious and firm in your resolve. Stay motivated and focus all your attention on quitting, giving it the highest priority. Be busy both physically and mentally all the time. Exercise more. Indulge in outdoor activities, enjoying fresh air. Every smoke-free day is a good day. As a non-smoker, declare victory over addiction and start celebrating your new life. Remember, I can do all things through Christ who strengthens me" Philippians 4: 13(NKJV).

Hearty Congratulations!

Pigeons and swallows

These pigeons infuriate me. Initially I enjoyed their antics and admired their beautifully colored feathers. But now their activities threaten to destroy our relationship. I don't mind them parading in our balcony...even pecking on the plants can be overlooked but I do have a low threshold for the mess they leave behind. And I wonder how God tolerated those swallows.

'Even the sparrow has found a home, and the swallow a nest for herself, where she may lay her young— even Your altars, O Lord of hosts, my King and my God.' Psalms 84:3.

I can't imagine letting them build a nest in my home. The noise and mess involved would drive me crazy. Oh! but God isn't afraid of messes. He wades right into them. The Samaritan woman, Zacharias, the woman with chronic bleeding...What a difference between God's heart and mine. He loves people. He's concerned about the least. Even a sparrow (-hardly worth a farthing in Jewish times) gets His attention. He's okay with close proximity. He does not withhold anything. He does not turn away those who come to Him. Rejection isn't a part of His vocabulary.

Acceptance

Acceptance doesn't come easily for most of us. At least not the kind God talks about. I am happy to keep my distance with people, especially when they don't fit into my mold. But Jesus' standards surpass my measly ones. He's more often interested in my growth than my comfort. (Accept one another, then, just as Christ accepted you, in order to bring praise to God. Romans 15:7.) God wants us to accept people from all walks of life because finally it's not the bumper stickers or WhatsApp forwards that make people thirsty for Jesus. It is love. "A new command I give you: Love one another. As I have loved you, so you must love one another. By this everyone will know that you are my disciples, if you love one another.”

John 13:34-35. (Note: Everyone will know. Shouldn't it make us want to strive to walk in love?)

Vulnerability

'Truth is harder than a lie

The dark seems safer than the light

And everyone has a heart that loves to hide

I'm a mess and so are you

We've built walls nobody can get through

Yeah, it may be hard, but the best thing we could ever do, ever do

Bring your brokenness, and I'll bring mine

'Cause love can heal what hurt divides

And mercy's waiting on the other side

If we're honest'

Vulnerability is hard. When people ask “How are you” the standard answer is “I am fine”. The people asking aren't expecting any other answer and the people answering don't want others to get a glimpse of their less than perfect life. Maybe if we are a little bit more honest about our struggles and failures our lives might encourage others.

Homes

Practice hospitality. Romans 12:13

I think I learnt a lot about marriage from my cousin and her husband more than any sermon during my college days. It was my home away from home and watching them interact with each other helped overcome some of the wrong ideas I had.

Accept. Love. Open hearts and homes and watch God work. I'm still not sure what to do about those pigeons though...

“Enlarge the place of your tent, stretch your tent curtains wide, do not hold back; lengthen your cords, strengthen your stakes. For you will spread out to the right and to the left.” Isaiah 54:2-3

Lord, please enlarge my heart. Make it like Yours. Make room in my heart to accept different people. By love this world will know, so reduce me to love. Teach me to love. Extend my circle of concern. Break my heart with the things that break yours. In Jesus' name, Amen.

Continuing to Celebrate....

“For even the Son of Man came not to be served but to serve others and to give His life as a ransom for many.” Matt. 20:28

Healing Ministry Kirk 200 March 2021

It was exciting and amazing to dwell on God's abundant goodness towards the Healing Ministry all through these past 200 years. The planned list for the celebration seemed exhaustive and a mammoth task. Did we bite off more than we could chew? Well ...it was the Great Physician who had put it in our hearts ... 'The One who called you is faithful and He will do it.' I Thess 5:24

It was such a great time of celebration amidst challenges like the pandemic, having only 24 hours in a day, the rebellious electronic systems, let alone the overload at work spot. Three weeks had a flood of doctors participating in the services with joy. The afterscenes were filled with excitement, adrenaline coursing through your veins, discussions, trepidation, palpitations and occasional missed heartbeats, even as the deadlines seemed to loom... oh so close!

We opened up with the release of a booklet 'Jesus The Healer'. As we all know, doctors only treat but it is God who heals. This booklet talks about the tools needed for healing The Name, The Word and The Blood of Jesus. A powerful read, it encourages one to put their faith in Jesus - the source of wisdom, who endows knowledge and skill to the medical fraternity. A Prayer Card to help people pray for healing was added to the booklet. We praise God for these tools which have been a blessing to many.

A short film 'Continuing to Care - Tracing Medical Missions in and around Madras' was screened on the second Sunday. It traced the early beginnings of healthcare and how some of the major hospitals were established through the humble efforts of the early medical missionaries.

"Make me a servant humble and meek, Lord let me lift up those who are weak."

"And may the prayer of my heart always be: Make me a servant, make me a servant today."

Sing to the LORD a new song, for He has done marvellous things Ps 98:1

We doctors in the Kirk love to praise ...however we may sound .. so with a bit of cacophony and camaraderie our hearts soared with praise worshipping God together singing 'Glory to God', 'Lord we offer our lives ' and' 'Make me a blessing.' We were often refreshed by Dr Vimala's brownies during the recording sessions.

A video presentation of the Healing Ministry in Thirupalaivanam, Karanodai and other outreach areas helped one to understand the ongoing work of the Healing Ministry. It ended with a Tamil song which spoke of us as the temple of God, built not on sand but on the enduring, dependable rock that is Christ Jesus.

The testimonies shared by the patients reiterated the fact of how God was working in their lives through the church and the healing ministry and how grateful we are to God for using even us.

The living testimony of Dr Vijay Anand and Dr Ann brought a tear to many an eye as we heard the transformation of the small rundown hospital of Makunda become a vibrant Hospital catering to the thousands in and around that area, with International tie ups for higher studies, Nursing School and a Nursing College in the near future.

Dr J V Peters, the Director of CMC Vellore shared about the health of the tripartite man.. the body, soul and spirit of man that is made whole in our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ.

Hey no! that wasn't a statistics class ...it was Dr Praise Ambrose concluding the 200 Healing Ministry month of March with pie charts and bar charts, with future plans of having more organised regular clinics with a call for more doctors to pitch in at least 2 days a year.

The song 'Carry the candle, go light the world' was a blend of doctors holding a light, at their work stations and some with their armours - echoing the verse 'You are the light of the world. Let your light shine before others, that they may see your good deeds and glorify your Father in heaven. (Matthew 5:14,16)

We wore many hats apart from that of a doctor ...content writer, video editor, poet, musician, singer songwriter commentator, photographer, director etc. and had fun.

Oh! how the Lord loves His church, His people.

Wherever they may walk, down a slope or uphill.

He is such a gentle Shepherd who never fails, who keeps His promises, who carries us when we are frail.

Oh! how the Lord loves the church His people.

Rejoice in the Lord always and again I say rejoice. Phil 4:4

We are thankful to God for every doctor who joined in the celebration, be it an Adeline singing from London or a Matthias clacking the keys from Texas: far and near, old or bold all of them rejoiced. It was gladdening to see many a young doctor come forward to actively participate in the service duties.

In everything give thanks for this is the will of God for you in Christ Jesus. I Thess 5:18. Amen.

Songs composed for Kirk 200 yrs. Celebration - Healing Ministry

Glory to God,

Glory to God, Glory to God, Glory to God in the highest.

Let heaven and angels sing: all people their praises bring

Sweet voices raised in thanksgiving, their offerings to the King of Kings.

Glory to God, Glory to God, Glory to God in the highest.

In spirit and truth let it rise, In this church with columns so high:

Let voices of young and old resound, the goodness and mercy of God, that abound.

In Hindsight

How many times do we look back at an event from our past and think, "Ah! God's timing was just perfect!"?

Giving birth to our first child in a country far from home amidst a global pandemic in 2020 certainly didn't seem like the best timing in our eyes. However, in hindsight, as I reflect on this in 2021, I see that God had a greater purpose in all the challenges he allowed in our life.

Six years ago, I developed an interest for nutrition and fitness. One of my early goals behind this was to one day be strong enough to deliver my child naturally. The interest that had started with a supposedly good intention grew to being an illusion that my life, and one day my pregnancy and labour too, was within my control, as long as I ate healthy and exercised well. I was happy with God working in every other area of my life, but when it came to my health, I was in control, or at least I thought so.

On the 14th of June 2020, just as I had hoped, our son Yohan was born naturally. However, our God, who is the only one really in control, had a plan far bigger than I could imagine. His plan was to reveal himself to me through the very aspect that I refused to let go of, my health and ultimately my life.

An hour after my birth, the nurses and doctors found that I had excessive postpartum bleeding, tried various methods to stop it and, in being unsuccessful, rushed me to the operation theatre. I truly thought that these moments were my very last and clung to the verse that God had given me that day—"the LORD delights in those who fear him, who put their hope in his unfailing love." Psalm 147:11. I felt that this was a call for me to just trust Him through it all.

As I closed my eyes in the operation theatre, it suddenly dawned on me that I had no grasp over this fleeting life that I was trying to hold on to in my own strength all these years. I realised that God alone was in control and every day that I had was only because of His grace and not any of my own efforts.

The next morning I found that I had a complication. I do not know how serious or common a complication it was, but to me it was the most terrifying experience of my life.

What followed, while we were still in the hospital, was the news that my parents-in-law were tested positive with this very virus that the world was afraid of. With a newborn on one side and our parents sick on the other, I felt like God was putting us through a test to see if we would trust him.

Through the next couple of months we tried to figure out parenting while I battled with the fear of the pandemic around us and tried to heal from the trauma of my birth experience. I clung to the Lord like never before. There were days where I could not see the light at the end of the tunnel. All I could do was just hold on to the verse God had given me that He delights in those who fear Him and put their hope (not in the circumstances around or in what we can see) in His unfailing love.

Did this verse mean that if I put my hope in Him, He would keep us all healthy and well amidst the pandemic? Certainly not. It was a call for me to let go of everything I clung to (the health and life of my newborn child and our family), place it at the foot of God's throne and rest assured that whatever He may do with it, sickness or health, was good.

Slowly but surely, as my focus started shifting from myself, and the situation around us, to God, I found peace, hope and even joy amidst these times. God had supplied our every need, and His grace was sufficient for each day. He provided for us through the caring support of our church community here in Malaysia. I found quiet but blissful moments at home, marvelling at God's creation through the growth of our child.

Through the process, in the midst of the arduous climb, I have to admit that there were many times that I couldn't see what God was doing. In hindsight, however, I see the perfect timing God had in bringing our child into this world. A timing that taught me to see that Christ's love was enough in and through every circumstance. A timing that taught me to truly learn what it means to trust and depend on God.

Our child's name is Yohan, which means God is gracious. His name and journey into this world will forever be a constant reminder to let go of all things temporal and cling to the only everlasting God, Jesus Christ, not because of what we can gain from him, but because a life lived in absolute surrender and love for Him, and Him alone, is the life we were created for.

Isaiah 55:8-9

For my thoughts are not your thoughts, neither are your ways my ways, saith the Lord. For as the heavens are higher than the earth, so are my ways higher than your ways, and my thoughts than your thoughts.
